A speaker up these steps will rise
across the Cathedral their voice then cries,
at the bottom of these steps we wait

3. - stand here and look left

I gleam and glitter in the light
My golden wings a glorious sight.
From my perch around the quire I look,
And upon my back rests a holy book.

4.

You'll find me on a royal head
Upon a hard and stone-cold bed.
I grace the face of John the King
And encircle his temple like a ring.

We stand tall above the quire
many shining silver spires.
For now we're quiet, peaceful still,

Throughout the quire, both far and near.
We've fallen down upon our chin
but that doesn't harm our toothy grin.
